EXAMS

⇒ Exams are done to test your understanding of what has been taught: there should be nothing new to shock you.

Kee a record / diary of what you have learnt, to prepare as best you can .

Time to revise all the content is important, so plan everything well.

Recap / review what your teachers have told you will be in the exam.

After all, this is where you can show all your teachers what you have learnt and what you do actually know.

Science is Fun...and was on 30/08/2019

Every year students come up with some amazing ideas for their science projects, and this year was no different. There were some great items, including Bio-fermented water, charcoal organic soap and from Y.12A on the right, N-Pastel water colours.

Lots of fun was had preparing for Science Day, and it was a full day of presentations, tasting and testing products and listening to the students explain their work. The girls from Y.11C, below left, offered a variety of jelly soap which promised all kinds of skin and health benefits.

The monster bottle crusher from last year was given an up-grade and is now lighter, more portable and easier to empty - Y.12A.

Then....what could be more fun than having edible spoons? In fact two groups produced these items, Y.11B a firm, flour-based spoon, and Y.11C, left, a softer cookie type spoon that was very delicious. It was a fun day, and there were some clever and fun products for all to see (and taste).
